

GER 1000 – READING GERMAN LITERARY TEXTS

WHERE? CL 135

WHEN? T, TH 11:00 - 12:15 PM

UNLOCK THE MYSTERY OF A TEXT AND ITS AUTHOR WHILE LEARNING GERMAN!

Like the brainy detective Sherlock Holmes, you will uncover the enigma of major German authors and their works.

The course has three main objectives:

- ❖ to help students learn to read with ease a variety of texts written in German (famous detective stories, novellas, plays, and poems);
- ❖ to introduce students to several different methods of interpretation;
- ❖ to facilitate the students' successful transition from intermediate language courses to advanced literature/culture courses taught in German.

GER 1000 prepares students for the advanced-level literature/culture seminars. Primary texts will be read and discussed in German. For additional information, please contact: Prof. Amy Colin: paxpeace@pitt.edu.
